Rubbing With Olive Oil Proba-

have been made by Roland Mueller, a young civil engineer, who after going fifty-seven days without food, today began taking nourishment in the form of orange and plum juices. Young Mueller, whose father is a prominent physician of Milwaukee, Wis., began his fast for the purpose of regaining his health. He had been suffering from stomach trouble and a form of deaf-ness that he believed could be cured by abstaining from eating.

When he began his fast Mueller weighed 148 pounds. Today he weighs 97½ pounds. For the last two or three weeks one of the four physicians who have been watching Mueller has been giving him daily olive oil rubs and these are believed to have given him particularly sufficient to sustain rule as bringing out characteristics of cruelty equal to those which they seek to avenge.

THEIR FORMAL CONFERENCE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—The astronomers from all parts of the world who since Tuesday have been attending the sessions of the International Union for Co-speration in Solar Research, closed their formal conference tonight at Carnegle observatory, on Mount Wilson. They will be entertained at a banquet tomorrow by Dr. George H. Hale, director of the Carnegle observatory, and then will leave on visits to various observatories in the United States. At 2 o'clock this morning the astronomers were routed out of bed to take a peep at Saturn through the great 66-inch reflecting telescope on Mount Wilson. All agreed the view was the best ever seen, as the view was seven-tentla perfect, as against four-tenths which heretofore has been the record. A blue cap was observed at the south pole of Saturn, while between that and the equator there was a broad belt of canary yellow.

ing live specimens from one country to another.

The new process of shipment consists in placing the specimens in small jars containing a quantity of pure oxygen. The jars are first filled with water, sealed and inserted in a large tank. They are then uncovered and a tube inserted, through which compressed oxygen is forced until there is enough oxygen to keep the fish alive during the ocean voyage.

The method has already been tried with success with smaller shipments on voyages of from two to three days.

"If successful," says the director of the New York squarium, "the experiment will solve one of our most difficult problems and will demonstrate that large fish in oxygen tanks can be taken in safety and comfort half way around the world."

ROOSEVELT MORALIZES UPON POLITICAL PROBLEMS

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 2.—Speaking to five hundred business men, Theodore Roosevelt today pointed out the interest held by the people of Europe in the success of representative government in America and declared that reactionaries abroad cast sinister eyes upon American institutions, halling with delight every story of graft, scandal and mob rule as an evidence that government of the people must fail.

Colonel Roosevelt also spoke contemptuously of the "merely multi-millionaire," the men who, he said, were a discredit whenever pointed to in Europe as a typical American. He referred to mob rule as bringing out characteristics of cruelty equal to those which they seek to avenge.

There is not another country where the average man (men who cannot expect to get to the top), has a chance to lead his life with the success he can achieve here. In the second place, what is less important and still very important, it seems to me, there is no place in the world where the man who does get to the top has a chance to lead a life so attractive and full of interest in every way as in the United States.

"Of course, if a man desires only to lead a life of pleasure, this is not a good country for it. There is no good country for it anywhere, for the simple reason that of all dismal careers, the most dismal, the most empty, the least worth living from any standpoint, is the career of the man who seriously devotes himself as his sole object to pleasure.

European ports in the steerage of the various trans-Atlantic liners this summer.

The official figures for August show that 4019 Americans arrived at New York as third class or steerage passengers during the last month. Vessels from British ports brought most of them, the Mauretania, on the voyage that ended at New York last week alone bringing 325 Americans in her steerage.

The explanation advanced at Ellis island for the large number of Americans who are coming home in the cheapest way is that the passengers are "dead broke." A small percentage, however, is accounted for by the fact that many persons who have to get home must come steerage owing to the crowded condition of the ships, or else stay abroad until the rush is over and cabin accommodations are available.

But most of the homecomers who are coming back in the steerage are doing so, according to the Ellis island inspectors, because that is the only kind of ticket they are able to buy. They went over first class, but used up their funds in travels and when the time come to come back they had to take the cheapest passage.

By actual count there were forty Americans among the 1124 steerage passengers. Of this number a dozen or so had applied for first-class reservations, but were unable to get them because of the crush. Others traveled so humbly for pecuniary reasons.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The fourth contract for the completion of the great dry dock at the New York navy yard, the construction of which has presented serious difficulties, was signed at the navy department today.

The latest contract changes the method of remuneration to the contractors, Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins of Boston, at present at work constructing the dock. Owing to the insufficiency of the appropriations by congress for the completion of the dock, the government entered into a contract with the Boston firm for the construction of the dock, payment to be made on a cost plus 10 per cent basis. Two reasons for such a step are pointed out. The first is to save from $300,000 to $500,000 a year in mint expenses. The second is to stop coining gold at the expense of the United States for the convenience of foreign money markets, which use it for the settlement of commercial balances.

In spite of the fact that more than $11,000,000 in gold was coined during August, the mint at Denver will be started up next week to turn out gold coins at the rate of $400,000 a day, the Philadelphia mint will start coining gold in October and the San Francisco mint is now making eagles at the rate of $500,000 a day.
